A large, dark blue double quote mark symbol.

“There are 3 kinds of people:
Those who make things happen
Those who watch things happen
and those who ask –
What happened?”

An active sentence:

- I drank two cups of coffee.
- People speak English and Spanish in the US.
- They have turned off the lights.

A passive sentence:

- Two cups of coffee were drunk
- English and Spanish are spoken in the US.
- The lights have been turned off.

Active or

Passive

The passive voice is used in the following situations:

1. When the subject is unknown, unimportant or obvious from the context.
2. When the action is more important than the subject.
3. To make the sentence more indirect (and more polite as a result)

The Passive

When?

The Passive

How to use it correctly.

We make the passive voice by putting the verb “to be” into the correct tense and then we add the past participle.

Active

They baked a chocolate cake.

He bakes a chocolate cake every week.

Passive

A chocolate cake was baked.

A chocolate cake is baked every week.

That’s right! We can use the passive voice with every verb tense and form.

So what is going on?

(with the passive voice, not the chocolate cake...)

The passive voice

How – the present

Here is a general overview of the present verb tenses in the passive voice

Active

They speak French in the meeting.

She is planting a tree.

Passive

French is spoken in the meeting.

A tree is being planted.

The passive voice is much more common in English than in Spanish

The passive

How – the past

Here is a general overview of the past verb tenses in the passive voice

Active

Someone stole the painting.

They were preparing the food.

Passive

The painting was stolen.

A tortilla was being prepared.

Here is a general overview of the perfect verb tenses in the passive voice

Active

They have cleaned the roads this week.

She had finished the report early.

Passive

The roads have been cleaned...

The report had been finished...

The Passive

How – the perfect

Here is a general overview of the future verb tenses in the passive voice

Active

We will take the horses to the stable.

They will sign the contract tomorrow.

Passive

The horses will be taken to the stable.

The contract will be signed.

Notice that the future continuous is never used in the passive

The Passive

How – the future

The Passive + Modals

As the passive voice can be used with any verb tense, that also includes the modal verbs. The rules are the same as with the other verb tenses.

Active

You should wash your wool sweater by hand.

They might give the Oscar to Tom Hanks.

Passive

Wool sweaters should be washed by hand.

The Oscar might be given to Tom Hanks.

The passive + modals

Active

We must look into that question.

Nobody can beat Spain at football.

They would need to arrest the politician.

Passive

That question must be looked into.

Spain can't be beaten at football.

The politician would need to be arrested.

Important differences

“to be born” is a verb that causes some problems for Spanish speakers because in English it is in the passive.

We cannot say “I ~~born~~ in Spain”

Eg:

Where were you born?

I was born in Spain (by my mother)

Verbs with 2 objects

Some verbs that have 2 objects can have 2 different passive sentences.

Give:

He gave the book to me

The book was given to me

I was given the book

Passive Voice:

Verbs with 2 objects

Active

She showed her relatives her new house.

The guide will show us the science museum.

Passive

Her relatives were shown the new house.

The new house was shown to the relatives.

We will be shown the science museum.

The science museum will be shown to us.

Remember that it is always possible to use the original subject “by...”

Passive Voice

Common Errors

Spanish students often misunderstand the passive voice and mistakenly believe the reflexive (in Spanish) = the passive (in English)

Obviously this wrong.

E.g.

Me despierto, me ducho, me visto, ...
